« The highlight of the Parisian scene » (ELLE)

This New Burlesque review combines traditional music hall and extravagant retro- modern performances, alongside striking dance numbers accompanied by live musicians.

The troupe includes twenty artists evolving within real "tableaux vivants" (living paintings) : pin-up burlesque performers, dancers, actors, singers, aerial acrobats, stilt-walkers and contortionists. They entertain with sequins, feathers and lashings of charm, summoning the seductive power of the "eternal feminine".

The scenario: when her brothel closes down, a madam (played by Dragon) decides to recycle her residents' talents to... music hall !

To a backdrop of retro films and wild rock'n roll music, the Filles de Joie take you on an unforgettable trip, in a universe halfway between Mistinguett and... Tarantino !

Cheeky and playful, they prance amongst the audience, dance the French Cancan on the bar and the Charleston on stage : the show is everywhere, presenting a delicious alternative to the old Moulin Rouge style and awakening the audiences' spirits and pulses.
